Unimer – your partner for polymer products

Full control over the entire process from product development to production and assembly to the packaged product. This is what Unimer can offer as your partner.

We offer a wide range and deep knowledge of polymer products such as hoses, weather strips, coated rollers and moulded components in rubber, silicone, polyurethane, thermoplastics and TPE.

Our customers are often OEM companies that have advanced products with strict requirements for quality and delivery performance. We provide technical expertise to help with product development and design so that your production is cost-efficient. In many cases, the solution may be for all or part of a product to be assembled by us.

We assure availability and delivery on time with our own stock management and well-developed logistics. With our unique, flexible business model, there are few restrictions in finding solutions to meet your requirements.

Polymer products

Over the years, we have developed a global supplier base that offers quality-assured products at competitive prices. Product quality is guaranteed via checks in our own test lab.

We combine our expertise and long experience of polymer products with our suppliers' specialized factories. By utilizing their advanced production facilities and processes we can assure high, uniform product quality even in demanding customer projects.

Our product areas

- Hoses
- Moulded rubber
- Vibration elements
- Plastic components

Save money without compromising on quality

The customised components we supply often form part of a more complex product in our customers' production processes. In many cases, we supply sub-assemblies of two or more components that can then be used directly in a customer's final assembly. This can generate significant cost savings, not least when it comes to assuring the quality of components.

Unimer gives you access to product and production expertise that, taken as a whole, represents a wide range of manufacturing areas. Our customer project managers are specialized in cost-efficient product solutions. The project manager is available throughout the process and gives you and your company the information and guidance you need to ensure that the products we supply meet your specified requirements and work as you intended.

Commitment produces quality throughout the production chain

Today the dilemma of many companies is the pressure to keep down purchasing costs and minimise stocks, while at the same time ensuring uninterrupted production process and keeping delivery schedules.

In addition to our European suppliers and manufacturers, we have built up partnerships, via our subsidiary in China, with a number of selected suppliers of whom we know from experience that they supply quality-assured products at competitive prices. This means that we can give our customers close attention also on site in China with high quality products.

To guarantee uninterrupted, reliable production, whether you are located in Europe or Asia, Unimer has a well-developed logistics chain including stocks in our domestic premises.

Our commitment to high quality, delivery performance and continuous improvement is unyielding. This is the commitment that we want you to experience.
